FVSA Expanding Care in New London Community

Beginning on June 2, 2020, Fox Valley Surgical Associates (FVSA) is happy to announce that we will be increasing our surgical and endoscopic services in New London. We have supported this community and its hospital for more than 20 years with vascular surgery outreach, and we are excited to now be offering specialty general surgical and endoscopic care as well.

In addition to general surgical care, consultations for complex liver, biliary and pancreas disorders will be available. Dr. Eric Stanelle will be seeing patients weekly in the New London Hospital Specialty Clinic and he will also be performing procedures there. Dr. Stanelle trained at Harvard's Massachusetts General Hospital and then completed advanced fellowship training at both the University of Louisville and Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center. He performs diagnostic and interventional endoscopy as well as laparoscopic and robotic procedures. Dr. Stanelle will be joining Dr. Jason Le, one of FVSA's vascular surgeons, to continue to provide residents of the New London area specialty surgical care close to home.

Appointments can be made by referral from your primary care provider or simply by calling our office at 920.731.8131.
